

Department of History

The Department of History started with the Department of Korean History in 1989 with the goal of cultivating professional manpower for the development of historical knowledge and historical awareness. The following year, it was reorganized into the Department of History. In 1997, the Department of History Education was established at the Graduate School of Education. The department is divided into five majors in Archeology, Art History, Korean History, Western History, and Asian History. Each major field is divided into ancient, medieval, modern, contemporary, and divided into politics, economy, society, ideology, culture, and education for each period so that each individual can concentrate on his or her interests.
