

Department of Accounting

Mankind's earliest record of accounting goes back to the time before Christ, but the history of accounting as a field of study begins in the 19th century. From the 1930s to the 60s, the field of accounting gained momentum through the development of new theories, eventually establishing itself not only as one of the core components of the social sciences, but also becoming an essential part of process of making economical decisions. Therefore, the Department of Accounting aims to teach students basic theories and concepts of accounting in order to establish their ability to assess problems, make decisions and to adopt a realistic view of the accounting system and environment.
